Birch Mountain Day School Scholarship in Memory of Megan Osborne-Godi Established 2020

Megan Osborne – Godi was an inspiration to many. Megan was hired to care for the firstborn child of Jenifer and Andrew Minicucci while also working at Birch Mountain Day School. She was freshly graduated from Bolton High School, Class of 1998, just 18 years old, like many of you. She was confident, friendly, and always kind. The staff often joked that our son, Jeffrey, was her firstborn. Megan married her high school sweetheart and eventually became a mother of 4 children. After having 3 boys she was overjoyed to have a baby girl. Within weeks of having her baby girl, she was diagnosed with stage 4 breast cancer. She fought hard for 3 years and passed away in July 2018.

Megan was raised in Bolton and attended the Bolton Public School System. She loved her school, her friends, and her teachers. This scholarship will go to someone who will care for children in an educational or nursing setting. This scholarship is given by the owner of Birch Mountain Day School, Jenifer Minicucci, where Megan worked for many years. In memory of her determination to fight and her never-ending love for her children, this scholarship is awarded to a student pursuing a career caring for young children.
